

Summer Course - team contract

Template version: 2021-08-08, Kjeld Jensen <kjen@mmmi.sdu.dk>; original concept by Jørgen Bro Rønn.

This contract sets out the team's expectations, working arrangements, and responsibilities for the project.

- What are your expectations for this project?
We want to understand how drones are built and how their individual modules work together to enable flight.
- What is your level of ambition?
Our ambition is to deepen our understanding of drones and build a drone capable of autonomous flight.
- How much time are you willing to invest in the project?
Each member will allocate enough time to complete their agreed tasks before the deadlines.
- How much time do you expect the other team members to invest in the project?
All members are expected to make a fair contribution and invest a comparable amount of time. Members will inform the group early if their availability changes so that we can adjust the workload together.
- How should the work be shared between the team members?
Each member will implement a solution for each module independently. We will then review the solutions together and resolve any problems. Report-writing responsibilities will rotate weekly. At the start of each assignment, we will identify the report writer, agree on an internal review deadline, and confirm who will submit the final report. All members will review the report before submission.
- Should the team select a team leader or not?
We do not need a permanent team leader.
- How should the team make decisions?
We will discuss decisions together and try to reach agreement. If agreement cannot be reached, we will use democracy.
- What should be the normal working hours for the team?
We have no fixed daily working hours. Members will work independently and arrange joint meetings through WhatsApp, taking everyone's availability and the assignment deadlines into account.
- What should a team member do if they cannot attend a scheduled meeting or work session?
A member who cannot attend will notify the group through WhatsApp as early as possible.
- What happens if a team member does not complete their agreed tasks?
The member will explain the delay, notify the group as soon as a deadline is at risk, and agree on a recovery plan. If work must be reassigned, we will record the change and who completes it. Repeated missed commitments or too late submissions will be discussed by the whole team and, if unresolved, raised with the course instructor.
- What are your concerns regarding the project?
We currently have no specific concerns about the technical project.
- What are your expectations regarding communication within the team?
We will use a WhatsApp group to coordinate work, arrange meetings, and record decisions. We will maintain our code in a GitHub repository, with members developing their solutions on separate branches. Each week, we will review the solutions for correctness, test results, and readability, and agree on a solution to merge into the main branch.
- Are there any other topics which you think should be included in the contract?
For each submission, we will explicitly name the person responsible and confirm the deadline in the group chat. That person will confirm once the work has been submitted.

Exercise part 1

- Each member considers their expectations for the topics listed above before the team discussion.

The members shared expectations are recorded in the answers above.

Exercise part 2

- The following roles support the meetings. All three members participate in discussions and have an equal vote.

Meeting leader > Fabian Blochl

Secretary > Richard Hrasko

Team member > Dominik Capko

- The meeting leader takes the topics one at a time and invites each member to explain their expectations. The team discusses the different views and agrees on the contract wording. The secretary records the agreed decisions.
- Responsibility for publishing and submitting this contract remains with the secretary unless the team explicitly agrees to reassign it.

Submission note: Richard Hrasko, the designated secretary, forgot to submit the team contract by the deadline. Dominik Capko has therefore completed and revised the document and is taking over the late submission.
